Suggested Money to Bring:

* $200 US Dollars (new/clean/non-ripped small denominations of $1s, $5s, 10s & $20s)
For tips to drivers, house-keepers, tour guides and airport exit fee (Make sure to keep $52 for your Costa Rica airport exit tax at the airport before you check-in for your flight)

* One or Two Visa or MasterCard ATM/Bank Debit Cards

For withdrawing Costa Rican Colones at ATMs for spending cash, and to charge any additional tours that where not already paid in advance, etc. Your bank will charge a ATM fee (usually $3-5 US dollars) and the Costa Rica ATM will charge a currency conversion fee, which is about $1-$3 depending on how much you withdraw. Most ATM machines in Costa Rica (and they seem to be popping up everywhere now), accept all the main partners, like PLUS, STAR, Interlink, etc., so you shouldn't have a problem using your ATM / Debit Card to withdraw local currency or make charges at places that accept Visa or MasterCard charges.

* Two (2) Visa or MasterCard Credit Cards

If you plan on using your credit cards for most of your in-country expenses, including withdrawing local currency, bring two cards, to have a back-up in case one doesn't work for some reason. You can use a Credit Card for withdrawing Costa Rican Colones at ATMs for spending cash (as long as you have your login code), and to charge any additional tours, hotels or transfers that where not already paid in advance, etc. Same local ATM conversion fees apply, however, most credit card companies have different policies for Cash Advances from Credit Cards, so please check with your credit card company for any fees that may apply.

Exchange Rate

$1 US Dollar = ₡500.00 Colones (as of 03/18/11)

Climate/Forecast

Wet Season / Sunshine during the day and light to heavy showers in afternoons
(50% chance of rain in the rainforest and mountains)
